BARREL CHASERS

Angie Takanami
Director, Writer and Producer

Travel writer, producer, debut director; surf and travel addict, story teller, mother. Likes surfing left-hand waves and wants to see them saved, for the earth, and for the kids. Dreams of surfing in Lobitos for a long time coming.

Harold Koechlin
Director, Writer and Guide

A Peruvian surf guide and big wave chaser who toured Angie around Peru's north coast on a recent surf trip. Lives in Lima, has two sons; dreams of permanently relocating to Lobitos to set up the Lobitos Eco Surf Zenter, facilitate The Lobitos Project, and save the waves for the kids.

Tim Wreyford
Director of Photography and Editor

A creative and passionate cinematographer, editor and colourist, originally from England and now residing on Sydney's Northern Beaches. With over fifteen years experience working on cinema projects, documentaries, TV commercials, music videos, short films and web video content.

MT Warning
Soundtrack

MT WARNING is an alternative rock band from Northern New South Wales, Australia. It is produced by filmmaker Taylor Steele. The name for the band comes via their home town Mount Warning, which is the first place to see the sunrise in Australia.

LOBITOS

- This page allows for a closer look at the town of Lobitos, the main subject of the documentary and encourages the user to learn more about it.
- Another photo gallery illustrates the observations made in the text.
- The Google maps imbed encourages the user to see the town within a more global context, not just as an isolated local but as part of something bigger.

EXPLORE LOBITOS

The Town

A laid-back fishing village boasting a plethora of sunshine, surf breaks and an addictive friendly vibe, Lobitos should be on the global map as a surfing mecca. Instead, the ocean is dotted with oil platforms and while walking around town you have to avoid oil wells, rigs, pipes and sometimes pools of toxic waste. Outside your bedroom window the night's mosquitoes, aka oil drills, pump relentlessly.

With a population fewer than 1000 people, in the greater district, Lobitos is trying to revive from a crumbling ghost town to a sustainable surf village. Despite its raw beauty and world-class surf, the town itself is crippled with abandoned buildings, oil drills, dangerous open pits, sewerage and waste management problems, and general poverty.
